Note. Finance may see. The work is stated to be essential.

There are six quarters for nurses in the head-quarters hospital at Bellary -- four in the ground floor and two in the top floor. The latter were constructed only recently while the four quarters in the ground floor have been in existence since 1929. It is now reported that the bath room attached to one of the four quarters in the ground floor has no tap and pipe connection. The proposal is to provide them at a cost of Rs. 20/-.

2. Apparently the bath rooms of the two quarters recently built on the first floor have not also got separate taps and pipe-lines. If so, it does not seem essential to provide them in the fourth bath room in the ground floor.

Besides it may be mentioned that as a result of the War the Government have now decided that all schemes of new expenditure should be judged by the standard of imperative and immediate necessity and that this standard should be enforced strictly and impartially in respect of all categories of expenditure irrespective of their cost. As the bath room in question has gone without a tap and pipe connection during the last ten years, the proposed improvement cannot be regarded as satisfying this test. It is for orders whether Finance may suggest that the proposal may be deferred.

Finance may agree to the proposal. The draft order may be accepted
